Earth, Sea and Sky Filled With Implements of War

Modern warfare on earth, sea and in sky. Here is a picture drawn from eye-witnesses' description of the fight at Ostend. The British and Belgians are opposing the Germans on land, each side engaging in a furious artillery fire. In the air, the birdmen of the Allies and those of the Teutons are scouting, skirmishing, often fighting each other like birds of prey. From the sea the big guns of the British battleships and cruisers are bombarding the German positions. The city is afire in many places and the night is lit with the lurid glare of flame and bursting shells.
